We seek to honor MRS. CHARLES BYRD WADE, whose Christian virtues, deep understanding and tireless devotion to her teaching ideals, and an abiding love for her pupils, her school and her community have enriched our lives, ennobled and prepared us for life's undertakings.

ROBERT McNEILL
Mr. T. Lenwood Lee, Principal; Wake Forest College, B. S.; East Carolina College, M. A.

The principal counsels; they discuss the concept of education.

Education, like success, is not a destination but a journey—a journey toward intellectual stature, social competence, spiritual maturity. Unattainable goals? Yes. But a journey does have milestones which denote progress in the right direction. The class of '58 has reached one such milestone. I am confident many others can be attained. Best wishes in the quest.

Coach Clark gets a ride from his new "State Champs."

Co-Captain Patrick and Coach Clark watch happily as Co-Captain Powers accepts the Championship trophy from State Athletic Director "Hop" Perry.

Individual honors went to: Sherman Salter, Best Sportsmanship; Richard Powers, Best Defensive Player; Jackie Simpson, Sportsmanship; Freddie Oglesby, Most Improved Player; James Guthrie, Best Offensive Player; John Glancy, Sportsmanship; Gerald Jones, Most Outstanding.

The prized "Mullet Bucket" fills once again with those 'delish' hamburgers from Dom's—eat hearty, boys!

glee club

The boys’ and girls’ glee clubs, forming a chorus of fifty-seven members, practice daily to present superior programs at Christmas, annual spring concert, and commencement. The Parent-Teacher Association has enjoyed their singing, as has also the student body at various assembly programs. This year the chorus presented concerts at the Atlantic and Smyrna schools. Mr. Ralph T. Wade is the director.
"You won't do any business if you haven't got a band. The folks expect a street parade and uniforms so grand."

The members of the MCHS Band were at work all summer preparing for, and participating in, Morehead City's Centennial Jubilee Celebration. Aboard the Carolina Queen, they took part in the Water Parade. They presented concerts preceding the historical drama, "The Blue and the Grey in Carteret County," and furnished incidental music for the dramatic production. Their final Centennial participation was in the Street Parade.

With the beginning of school, they supported the champion football team through its prolonged season of play, often traveling to support the team at games away from home. And can anyone forget the enraptured pep meetings when "Rock 'em, Roll 'em" inspired our best! Winter and spring concerts were two enjoyable civic events.

The band is composed of forty-eight members and is directed by Mr. Ralph T. Wade, assisted by student directors Frank Sanderson and David Nelson.
Practicing for another concert!

Hall monitoring and selling school supplies constitute long-standing activities of the Student Council. This year's Council, under the leadership of Llewellyn Phillips, Darden Eure, Ginny Lou Smithwick, David Nelson, and advisor Mrs. Bally, added to these undertakings the selling of milk and nabs during the break, netting $1,520.03 on sales of supplies and food. Their donations are a lawn mower and a filing cabinet to the school and $500 for the Scholarship Fund. A constitution has been drawn up for the Council, and steps are being taken to increase the Council's effectiveness as a disciplining body.

The Beta Club's activities, under the leadership of Guy Sabiston, Ted Phillips, Jo Anne Lockhart, and Mrs. Phillips got underway early in the fall with the induction of new members, using the traditional tapping ceremony. Membership is a reward for, and dependent upon, the maintenance of a high standard of scholarship and character.

At Christmas, a present of food and a decorated Christmas tree was given to a local family with several small children.

In the spring the members engaged in two service projects. First, under Mr. Lee's direction, a survey of local businesses was undertaken with a view of determining job opportunities and the need for vocational training. Almost every member participated in this activity.

Two visits were made to Newport High School to assist in the organization of a chapter of the club there. In recognition of this service, the club received a certificate and a banner from the National Office.

The Tri-Hi-Y members, under the able leadership of the first term officers, Jane Oglesby, Margaret Guthrie, Joyce Styron, Fanella Cooper, and advisor, Miss Boomer, held several bake sales.

During the second term Faye Jones, Ginny Lou Smithwick, Judie Cooper, and Janet Thomas were installed as officers. The members assisted the Lions' Club in the Azalea sales. They also sold Easter Lilies. For entertainment, they sponsored a square dance. They also contributed to the Scholarship Fund.

F.T.A. pins are worn by members who give five hours of service to teach or help on a school program and make written reports on N. C. E. A., N. E. A., or Future Teachers' literature.

Scholarships are available to students on the basis of a promise to teach in North Carolina after graduation from college.

Officers and their advisor who have led this club in a year of service in MCHS are Jean Brown, Carolyn Nixon, Dot King, Janice Lovick, and Mrs. Hattie Lee Phillips.

We have in our school a club which holds a considerable amount of interest for more than sixty of our high school students. This club, the Future Business Leaders of America, has two main and worthy purposes. One is that it endeavors to bring to its members basic information about the business world which they cannot obtain from their textbooks and basic courses. The other purpose is to enable the students to get together and undertake projects which through group action will better themselves, their school, and their community.

These students have ably and cheerfully served the school and community under the leadership of their officers, Margaret Guthrie, Alice Faye Jones, Lynwood Durham, Carolyn Nixon, Jean Brown, and Miss Helen Jernigan, Advisor.

Statewide recognition has come to the members of the Library Club for their P. T. A. story hour and their work in setting up and manning the elementary school library. Clarence Styron and Ashely Jarman, attending the North Carolina High School Library Association Convention, brought back to the club accounts of interesting activities in other parts of the state. A visit to the Beaufort Library Club was also pleasant and profitable. Phyllis O'Boyle headed a committee to make posters celebrating National Library week. Throughout the year the Library Club members have kept the shelves in order, made attractive displays, handled circulation, and helped process new books. Miss Hortense Boomer is their advisor.

Getting supper for a mother who works, planning a family budget, washing the walls and laundering the curtains of the high school girls’ restroom, planning and executing the Mother-Daughter buffet supper, and selling Christmas seals and blue crutches—these are some of the activities performed by the Future Homemakers working to earn junior and chapter homemaker degrees.

Under the leadership of officers Donna Guthrie, Jessie White, Carita Lockhart, Joyce Styron, and the advisor, Mrs. Cordova, this big organization of talented girls is well known to the students and teachers. Whether making candied apples, bringing red roses to each classroom, or having a party, they do the job well.

We present to you in one package the familiar faces, times, fun. We have searched out innumerable details in an effort to present Morehead students out of class and in, on the job and on the go. We have sought in particular to interpret the charm, dignity, and permanent influence of the Seniors.

As you turn the leaves of the Sandfiddler, may you enjoy in retrospect the best of your experiences here—the stimulating association with each other, the active participation in student organizations, and the intellectual enjoyment of the classroom.

The main purposes of the Eagle are to inform the students of school activities and achievements, train students in the art of creative writing, and to serve as a public relations medium between the school and the home. There were four issues of the Eagle during the year and a weekly column, the Eagle Eye, in the Carteret County News-Times.

around the school

David Nelson, Student Council treasurer, holds a Christmas gift in the form of a CARE contribution from Morehead students.

Break in work and "fast," the fifteen minutes to relax and refresh, is one of our most popular innovations. Student Council members sell milk and nabs.

Unique posters, campaign speeches—short, sweet, and free from mud-slinging—mark student activities as democracy goes into action when student elections are held.

Attendance suffered its heaviest blow in years as epidemics of Asian flu and several varieties of measles spread through the student body and faculty.

Automatism is the rule in the busy lunchroom, but not soon the day the ladies wore the Easter bonnets. We looked at them instead of the food that day and found them interesting people instead of machines.
Barbara Goodwin’s Science Fair project, “Oyster Predators,” was a winner in the Northeastern District Science Fair held at East Carolina College.

Clarence Styron’s exhibit, “Distribution and Interpretation of Bacterial Pollution in a Tidal Estuary,” winning on the district level, was chosen among senior biological projects displayed at the State Science Fair at Duke to be exhibited at the annual meeting of the North Carolina Medical Society, held in Asheville. It is now on display in the State Museum in Raleigh.

Winning on the state level was Ted Phillips, whose project, “The Useful Conversion of Energy,” received fifth place award in the State Science Fair at Duke. Ted has also been admitted as a junior member of the North Carolina Academy of Science, and as such receives their publication, to which he is invited to contribute reports. As a district winner, Ted received the gift of a multimeter.

A semifinalist in the National Merit Scholarship Contest, David Nelson has had offers from Tulane University and State College. He has accepted a Talent for Service Scholarship to State.

Llewellyn Phillips, Jr. is the recipient of a John Motley Moorehead Scholarship to the University of North Carolina. Moorehead Scholarships are awarded on the basis of merit, particular attention being paid to academic standing, character, leadership, ambition, and physical prowess. These scholarships for undergraduates are valued at $5,000 for a four-year tenure.

Recognition for literary ability came to three MCHS students this year.

John Phillips was one of the six finalists chosen from among more than one hundred eastern North Carolina students who competed in a journalism contest. Sponsors were the News and Observer Publishing Company and the Ford Motor Company.

“Rendezvous,” a short story by Llewellyn Phillips, was one of thirty-three winning entries in the good writing competition sponsored by the North Carolina English Teachers Association. It is published in the 1958 Student Issue.

Fred Willis, Jr., received $100 as second place winner on the state level in an essay contest on Vision and Highway Safety. Previously he had received $60 on his essay, $10 for winning in Morehead City, and $50 as winner in the district.

Ann Herbert was judged third place winner in the district High School Oratorical contest held in Jacksonville, North Carolina. As first place winner in Morehead City, she received a $25 savings bond, given by the American Legion.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

To the R & Y Furniture Company for the use of the furniture.

To Mrs. Monty Taylor's home room for making the flowers for the play.

To the Cushing News Times and Radio Stations WMLT and WIMA for their help in advertising the play.

Eagerly looking for necks to crack, the handsome osteopath, Stan Barbour (alias Darden Eure) gives a treatment to the gay old bird, Hiram Dill (David Nelson).
The technical staff relaxes after a job well done.

The fascinating new stars everyone is talking about. You've seen them before; you'll want to see them again.

Not quite right mentally, Hetty Metcalf (Betty Lind Eure) has everyone reeling with her crazy antics. Here she convinces the gigolo, Lee Tyson, (Frank Sanderson) to exercise with her as she works her way up to good looks and popularity.
On Friday night, October 8, the football field at Camp Glenn was the scene of much excitement. Not only was homecoming game anticipated eagerly but also every student at Morehead High was breathlessly awaiting the outcome of the Varsity Queen contest.

There were twelve lovely contestants and only one could be queen. Who was she? Perhaps Sally Morris or Marguerite Edwards would be chosen. Maybe it would be Pat West, Melva Swinson, or Judy Cooper. Barbara Guthrie, Linda Lockhart, and Betty Lewis were likely prospects, not to leave unmentioned Bonnie Hughes, Sue Thompson, Beth Mayo, or Joan Guthrie.

The poor voters were thrown into a miserable dilemma, as the sight of the twelve different-colored gowns and the twelve pretty faces was like viewing a rainbow and being told you could choose one twelfth of it for your own!

The halftime came (we were leading 32 to 0), and a breathless hush arose over the bleachers. The contestants walked out into the field, escorted by twelve fortunate Morehead football players. What a sight it was! When the majorettes and cheerleaders formed an arch under which the twelve girls and their escorts passed, it seemed as if all of this color and excitement on the football field couldn't be real.

But it was real, and everyone was startled back to reality when they saw Richard Powers and Gordon Patrick poised ready to crown the winner. They had paused in front of a contestant, looking adorable in her tomato red formal when they placed the crown on her head.

All it took was a kiss from Sherman Salter, her escort, to make her blush a bright crimson. The crowd was delighted, and it was plain to see that they were pleased with the blushing Varsity Queen, Betty Lewis.
