Head of the Class

Head of the Class

What would you tell a 7th grader about being in the 8th grade?

"It is a great experience to be part of this family. After completing this year, we are going to be changed forever."

—Christina Wetherington

"Be ready to work harder!" —Melissa Phillips

"There is a lot more responsibility in the 8th grade."

—Greg Murray

What would you leave BCMS to remember you by?

"I'd leave my big mouth and smile to the future cheerleaders."

—Mary Catherine Rouse

"My locker with NKOTB posters all over it."

—Anique Pittman

"My cheerleader's uniform."

—Lisa D. Morris

What was your worst moment so far this year?

"The volleyball game against Beaufort."

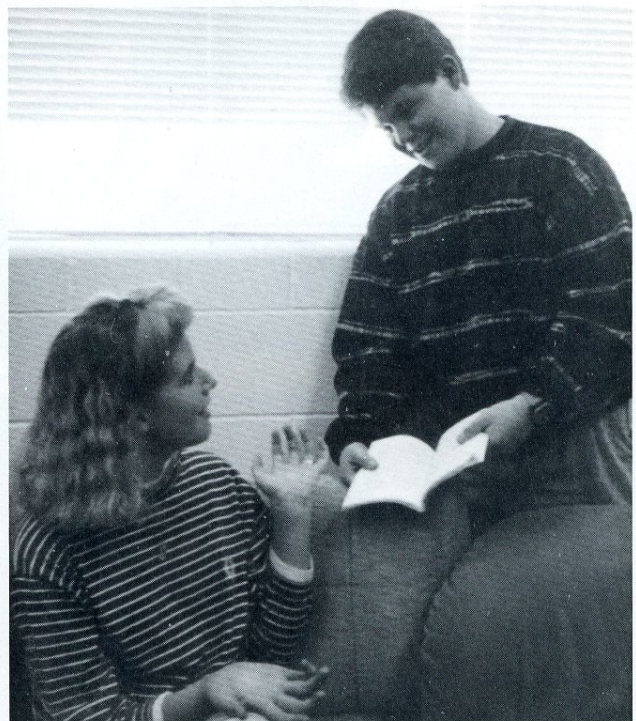

—Emily Page

"When I got an 'F' in Pre-Algebra."

—Stephanie Nelson

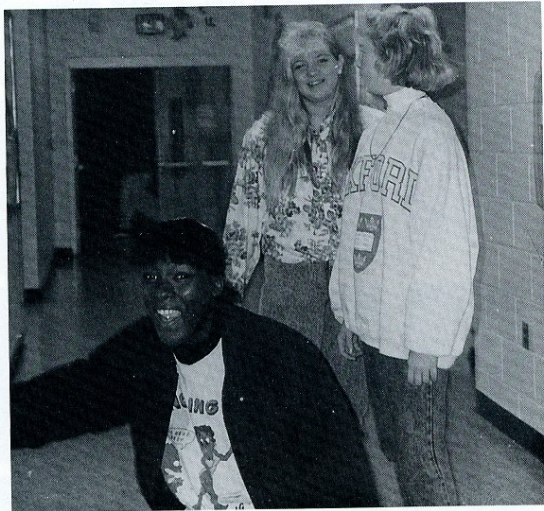

"When I went to the wrong class and stayed there."

—David Morgan

Can you believe how gross this stuff is?

Myeassha performs for her audience.

How long do we have to stand this way?

Three years ago we began our first year at Broad Creek Middle School amidst a sea of confusion. On that first day of school we entered an uncompleted educational complex, started a new educational program, met two new administrators, and saw many unfamiliar teachers and students. We adapted, though sometimes reluctantly, to the many changes that were implemented during those years. As the years passed, we became part of the Broad Creek Middle School family.

As our eighth grade year began, we were confronted with the uncertainty of an impending war. A number of us were directly or indirectly affected. Though we were still developing the skills of responsibility and organization, we found ways to support and comfort those teammates who had loved ones serving in the Middle East. Exploratory classes had their Christmas musical programs videotaped, collected personal hygiene items, and made cards for our troops stationed in the Middle East. We all felt that sense of Bulldog Pride.

AT BCMS we have learned to become responsible adolescents. We have developed organizational skills that will help us now and in the future. Making the correct choices have come easier with newly acquired decision-skills. We have found that it is better to be part of the solution rather than part of the problem. These lessons have not come from textbooks, but from teachers who care about our present and future needs.

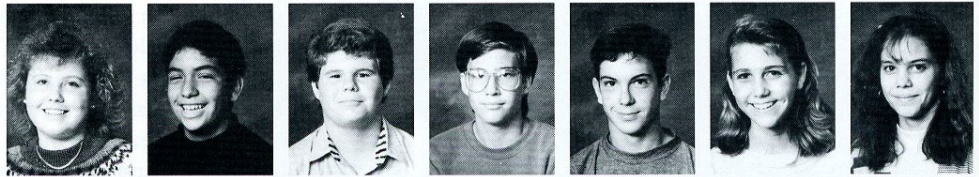

We look forward to the new challenges that high school will bring to us. With the educational background we have received at Broad Creek Middle, there are no obstacles that we can not successfully overcome.

Is this what the well-dressed Bulldog fan wears?

Students Caught the Whale Wave

Smile, everyone.

Trust us.

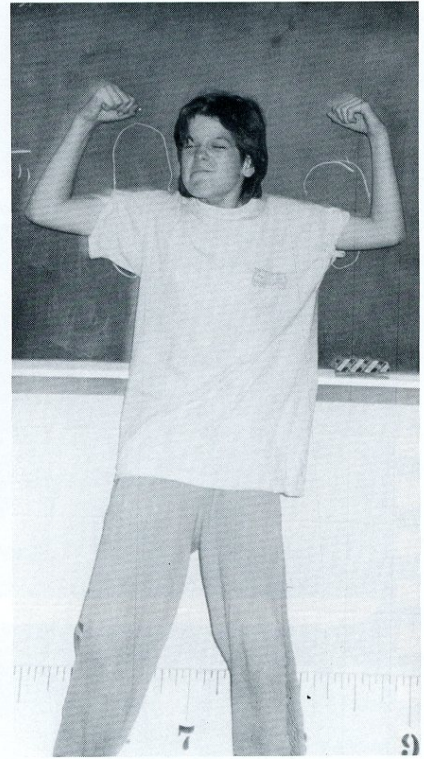

Sometimes I just need to be quiet and plan the day's activities.

Which period is this?

What did you say I'm soaking in?

I can do it.

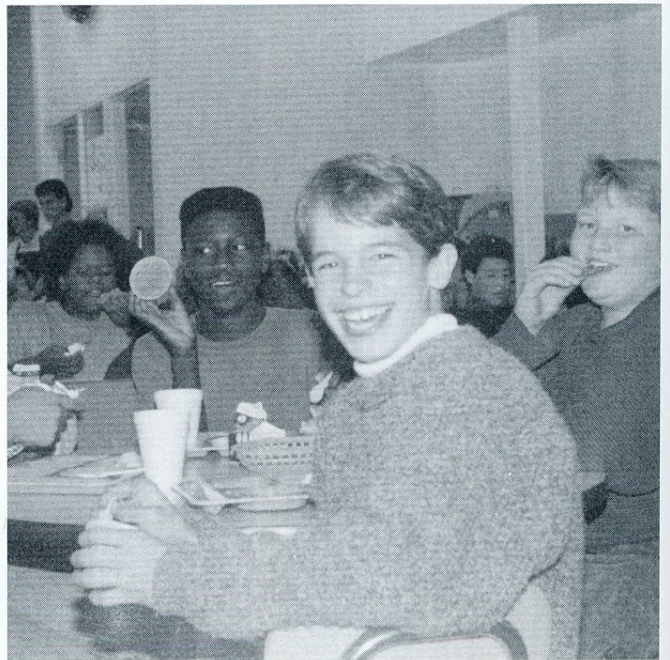

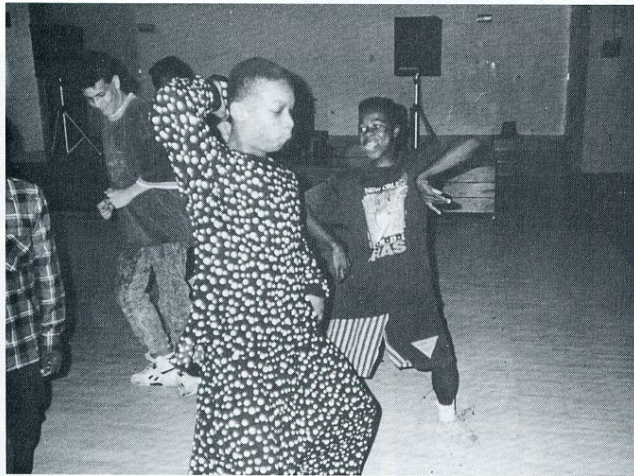

I think I'm going to like this class.

Whale Teachers: Cheryl Baker, Susan Fulcher, Pollye Pruitt, Norma Pifer, Susan Langdon

The Wonder Years

Memories of the first day of school:
"I got confused about my periods." —Jay Akau
"I couldn't pronounce my homeroom teacher's name." —Lacie Sumrall
"I could not find the art room." —Mary Ann Benson

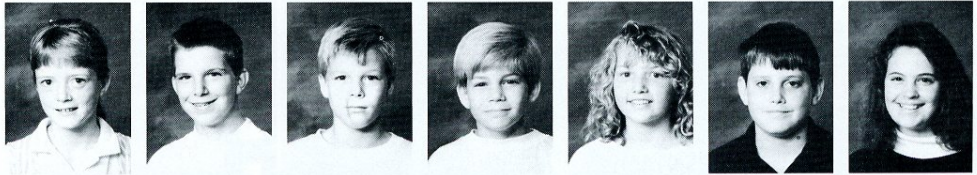

The hardest thing to adjust to at BCMS:
"One of my teachers, Ms. Walston, changed her name when I was just getting use to her old name." —Willie Lewis
"Changing the schedule." —Christina Melillo

Favorite PE activity:
"Soccer" —Nathan DeRosia
"Bowling and golf" —Brenda O'Donnell
"Putt-Putt" —Susan Romero
"Prison Ball, it's fun!" —Davy L. Lee

Deborah Hensley, Holly Smith, and Ralph Wade

At first, the idea of teams was a little confusing. We were used to one set of 28 classmates, one grouchy teacher, and 180 boring days of school. Everything has changed. Now, with 96 classmates, 3 awesome teachers, and 180 days, each full of something new, our boring school days are over! That's what being a Seahorse means. Being able to learn and grow-up in the greatest place in the world ... a Seahorse classroom!

The Sporting Life

This year intramural program was an important addition to the overall program of education at BCMS. Intramurals provided a program of recreational participation that met the demand, needs, and interests of each of our students. Some of our varied intramural activities included: team dodgeball, model building, sign language, horseshoes, dance, calligraphy, bowling, gymnastics, board games, fishing, and many more! The involvement in our program fostered friendly competition, teamwork, sportsmanship, and personal fulfillment. A good time was had by all!

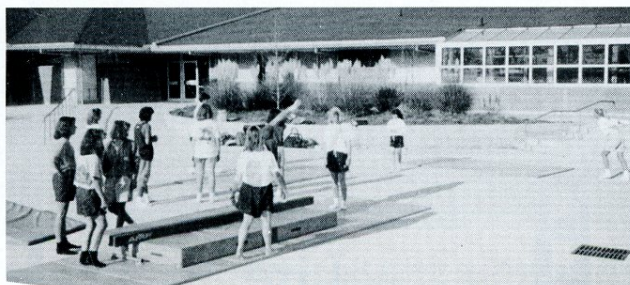

Monica Boutilier, JoAnne Tomlinson, Christina Guthrie, Christy Brown and Jamie Robertson "shake a leg" in dance.

Thomas Burton and Steve Taylor "serve it up" in Ping Pong.

Mrs. Nancy Guthrie challenges Ken Larson and Ryan Claar to a chess match.

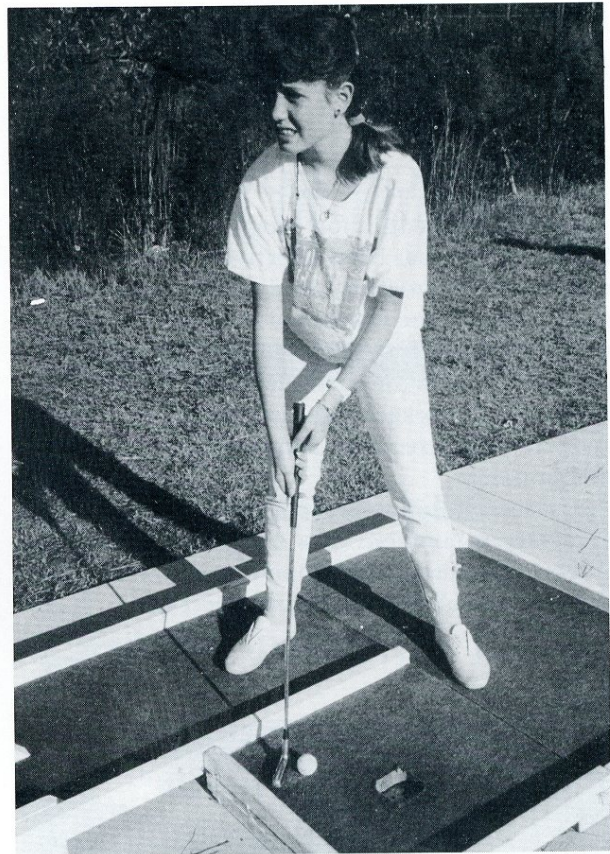

Johnny Wright and the girls flip for Gymnastics.

Twice the fun in Giant 4-Square.

Lori Bohanon leads the sign language class in a song.

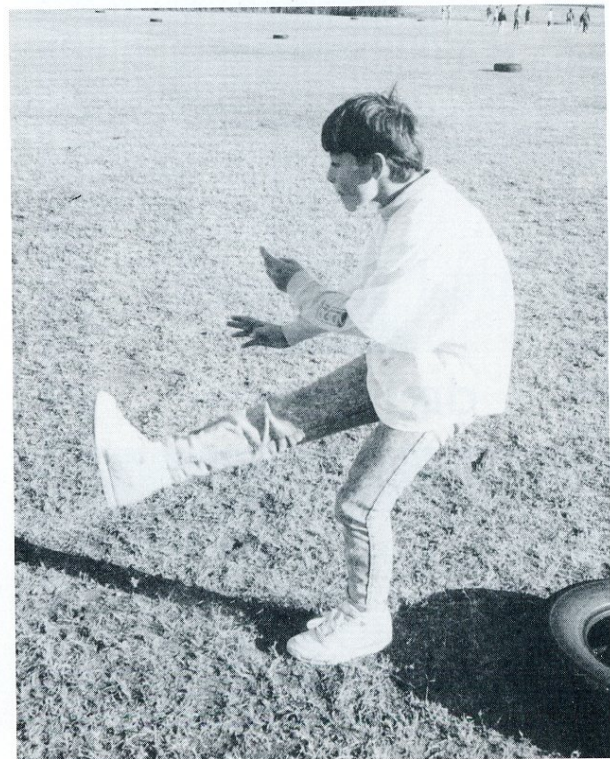

Brooke Covert goes for par.

"Students and teachers are always living for Fridays at BCMS. This year I have looked forward to intramurals because I could finally go out and play! In (soccer) intramurals it's fun meeting kids from other grades and seeing if you can play and interact as a team. Intramurals help me set my spirit 'free' for the weekend." —R. Wade

Kim Sells "takes aim" in archery.

Russell Casto "hot dogs" it on the soccer field.

Physical Education

The physical education program at Broad Creek Middle School has been effectively structured as a well-rounded program. Students who participate in the program are encouraged to learn and enjoy a variety of sports and recreational activities. The program stresses the rules and skills of an activity, the cultural background, sportsmanship, health and safety requirements, and the selection and care of equipment.

Physical education has long been recognized as a necessary component in a program of education and provides total development in the students and also the ability to achieve success.

"From a Distance"

This school year brought much uncertainty to the lives of many of the students and teachers of Broad Creek Middle School. From August to December we watched as our fathers, mothers, brothers, sisters, aunts, uncles, and cousins left for the Middle East. Being located close to the port city of Morehead and being situated between two large military facilities, we witnessed the deployment of thousands of military personnel as they passed our school on the way to the ships and planes that would take them half a world away. Students at BCMS did much to show their support for these troops. The vocational classes and the cultural arts classes joined forces to send Christmas videos and care packages to the USS Nassau. Support groups were formed to help students through this troubled time. Bulletin boards were decorated with yellow ribbons and names of loved ones. Yellow ribbons were tied to the trees in front of the school. American flags and ribbons were displayed above some doors. The basketball team had an American flag sewn to their uniforms. Listening to the playing of our national anthem and reciting the Pledge of Allegiance seemed now to have more meaning. We were proud to be an American.

"This year's volleyball team started out with the first loss in two years. That loss set the tone for the season. The girls rallied back and won the next 7 matches ending the season with a 7-1 record and second place in the conference. This team was probably the most talented that has been here at BCMS. I'll certainly miss those veteran players when the season begins next year! I wish them all the luck & success in their future high school careers." —Ms. Penny Boudreaux

The 1990-91 team started out their season with a bang and ended with one also. The entire team contributed to their victories by combining hustle, defense, determination, and dedication to add up to a winning attitude and a successful and fun season.

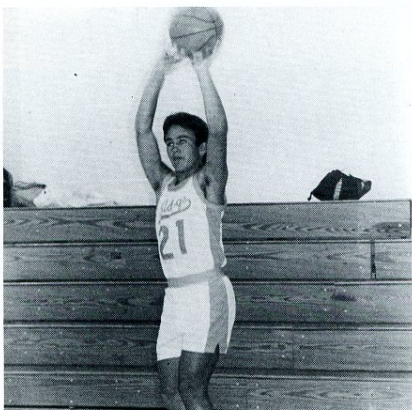

—Coach Melanie Hunt

Boy's "B" Team Basketball

The 1990-91 basketball season was an overall learning experience. The boys learned the fundamentals of the game and also the importance of teamwork to achieve victory. The overall season was successful, and the boys are to be commended on a fine display of raw ability and sportsmanship.

Girl's "B" Team Basketball

Knute Rockne once said, "The way a man wins shows much of his character, and the way he loses shows all of it." The 1990-91 girl's "B" team demonstrated remarkable character as they regrouped after each game, practiced hard, gave 100%, and played with intensity, pride, and dignity. These are the traits of true winners. I am very proud of the team.

"Have I got time to get a drink?"... "Does anyone have change for $5.00?"... "Matt, can I borrow 50 cents?"... "Is it 3:15 yet?"... "Hi, Cam"... Thus began the weekly meetings of the Prime Time '91 yearbook staff. Our staff was composed of fourteen students and six team teachers. On September 5, student staff members started to work. These students silkscreened the equivalent of ten dozen T-shirts, made posters, decorated a display window, put "Bulldog Fans" together, arranged a collage, printed discount coupons, and completed many, many more tasks in preparation for National Yearbook Week. Our slogan for that week was "We'll be blue without you in the '91 yearbook". Our sales campaign, "Get Ready for Prime Time '91," was conducted the following two weeks. Staff members assisted receipting the money that was collected and reminded their fellow students that if they wanted to see our beloved principal turned into a Prime Time sundae they would have to buy 400 yearbooks during the sales period. Our goal was surpassed. On the final day of the yearbook sales, 127 yearbooks were purchased thus setting a record for most sales in one day. That afternoon Mr. Ron Parrish, our principal, graciously stood in front of the student body to await his fate complete with whipped cream and cherries. A good time was had by all!

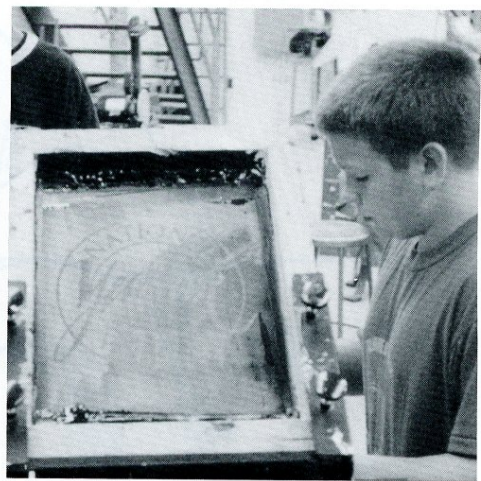

Our student staff had dwindled to eleven faithful and true members. For the rest of the year our staff took pictures and developed them, drew numerous layouts that didn't always fit the pictures we had, and wrote and rewrote copy. Though much work was produced, there was still time for fun, laughter, and good fellowship. Our teacher staff members designed and drew the layouts for their respective teams. This was a new experience for most of them. They also had some frustrating moments, too. The final deadline was met. The only thing left to do was to await the publication of our book.

"I've done these band layouts so many times I can do them with my eyes closed."

Beth Pake dries one of the shirts the staff printed for National Yearbook Week.

OK, how many days until the deadline?

Receipts make me crazy!
